http://rishnish.blogspot.com	Growing Phase of Rish and Nish	Arrival of Nish made me a SAHM and enjoys motherhood in ways unimaginable. This was accompanied by Rish just opening up in his communication. I have been a lazy mom in capturing many of their magical moments. Before they leave the baby's nest I want to treasure some of them so that it can be enjoyed later on! I hope I can make it as impressionable with my words as they did with their words and actions :-)	Terrible two's and Fearsome four's Thithab turns 4 Mishy Mishy turns two !

My blog is on-line journal of angel's antics from crawling to falling to walking, her goo gaa and all other similar stuff. Presently I m work at home and enjoying perfect balance between work home and angel. The Mother is praised, her virtues extolled by one and all, particularly on Mother's Day. Gifts are given and she is happy at least on that day. But do we attach meaning to what we do? I particularly feel sad for the performing artists, actresses of the lot who lead painful lives. Their relatives sponge on them, husbands are rude to them, very often their children go astray and on top of it, the society takes pleasure in mocking at them in public.	Oh, Woman ,you are your own enemy! An open letter from a mother to her newly married daughter-part-3 Suseela,my love,my wife and my Valentine Your Ability to Communicate ,My dear,decides your Success at Home and at Office
http://www.aditisalbum.blogspot.com	Aditi's Album	I was wowed by reading other mommy blogs that I started my own. The blog is all about my little girl and snippets from my own life feature on the blog occasionally. I picked up various tips from other bloggers when Aditi was baby and hope that the blog will be useful to others around the globe. The other common thread that runs in my blogs which fascinates me is the connection to India. Living thousands of miles away, it's nice to know what happens in one's favourite city through the words of fellow bloggers. Lastly it's a record of Aditi's life as I see it and which she may like to read once she grows up.	Latest Addiction History Repeats Itself Creating The Golu The Bicycle Dreaming Of Big Cars

Basically a happy person, I have a smile that reaches my eyes and I almost always have my heart in the right place. I am not the most sentimental of mothers and more often than not resort to "screaming banshee" variety of parenting and don't even guilt trip about that too often! We often rush through life, thinking that money, things or jockeying for position will really get us somewhere faster. We think that we will get to joy, fulfillment, and peace faster. That's really what we want. But since our seats are assigned in the journey of life, it really doesn't matter. Welcome to my Blog! I hope you enjoy it.
